News on R. F. D. No. 1, Blitch.

The recent spell of weather some what cooled the ardor of the early planter.

Peaches, apples, plums and other fruits are in full bloom, and the prospects are for a fine crop.

Mr. C. M. Capps and family, from the river side, visited relatives in this community Sunday.

The farmers are about through planting corn and sea island cotton, while but a few have planted short cotton yet. Everywhere we see signs of reduction in the acreage. The people in this section seem determined to comply with the requirement of the Cotton Growers' Association as far as it lays in their power, and we are of the opinion that nothing daunts the determined man.

Miss Anna Bland, the daughter of Mrs. Kate Bland, we regret to report is ill with typhoid fever.

Prof. D. L. Deal has just commenced his school at the Enterprise Academy.

Mrs. Mollie Chester is dangerously ill with pneumonia.

Mr. W. T. Womack is hauling lumber to erect several tenant houses on his place.

A good sized crowd were disappointed at not having Elder Brown with them at Philip Sunday, his attendance being prevented on the account of illness.

The farmers are all planting large crops of velvet beans this year, and the cows look on with a smile of satisfaction as they realize the benefit to be derived from them next winter.

DAN.

Items From Sam.

Not seeing any communication from our part of the county, I will send you a few, although news is somewhat on the order of hen's teeth—scarce.

The farmers have all about recovered from the cold snap, and are pushing their work with renewed energy.

Gardens around here have been injured to some extent by the recent frost.

The elegant new dwelling of Mr. J. G. Brannen is rapidly nearing completion.

We are glad to chronicle that Mr. J. I. Brannen has almost fully recovered from a recent attack of grip.

The school at Tyson's Grove is in a flourishing condition.

There is a movement on foot to organize a debating club from among the schools in this vicinity. We trust the movement may "realize," as debates, properly conducted, are of great advantage to all young persons.

Rev. Mr. Hursey preached an able and instructive sermon to a large congregation at Bethel last Sunday.

Miss Ella Deal gave a very pleasant singing party at her home last Sunday afternoon.

D. BARNES.

"Pete The Barber"

will be fully prepared to do your barber work on quick time court day. Two shops, DeLoach's old stand on North Main, and my present shop in the Oliff block on South Main street.

S. W. SUTTON.

Brooklet Briefs.

The new drug store of Dr. J. M. McElveen is now ready for occupancy.

The contract has been let to Messrs. W. B. Lee and Frank Rodgers for a nice home for Mrs. W. B. Robertson.

Mr. John M. Lee has just finished a nice wire fence around his land here.

It is said there was ice Monday and there was a heavy frost Tuesday morning.

Mr. Broughton is now about ready to cut shingles, and will furnish them in cypress and pine.

Mr. H. M. Robertson has the bag Irish potato patch of this section, consisting of five or six acres. He also has English peas and beans.

There has been a move on foot here to get a suitable piece of land for a cemetery. We hope that there will be a place obtained. However, we think the observation of our liquor laws ought to be looked after by our citizens and Uncle Sam too. That is of considerable more importance just now.

We are glad to know that little Effie Shearouse is up again after a few days sickness of fever, but sorry to note that Willie Shearouse is sick. We hope that he will soon be up again.

Mr. Joe Hall is delivering the mail boxes on the new R. F. D. route from here to Harville. This route will put us in touch with one of the last farming sections of the county, and will also be a great convenience to the people along the line. Let the good work go on.

BULLOCH TIMES.

ESTABLISHED 1892.—NEW SERIES VOL. 1, No. 6. STATESBORO, GEORGIA, THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1905. ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

SAID TO BE A DODGE

FERTILIZER MEN ARE WORKING TO ADVERTISE.

FARMERS ARE KEEPING FAITH.

President Jordan Says That Tags are Being Wanted for Purposes of Making a Show.

ATLANTA, April 21.—Hon. Harvey Jordan, president of the Southern Cotton Association, says the increase in the sale of fertilizer tags this year does not indicate necessarily an increase in the sale of fertilizers, and hence, an increased cotton acreage. He says the companies are working an advertising dodge and call on them to explain why five or six tags are placed on one sack and why hundreds are distributed over the floor of the cars.

In a statement prepared for the press of the state Mr. Jordan says: "Since the recent statement issued by the commissioners of agriculture of the state of Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina, that up to April first more fertilizer tags had been sold than for the same period of 1904. I have been carefully investigating the situation with reference to actual sales of guano in 1905 as compared with those of last year up to the present time. While it is doubtless true that the sale of tags by the department of agriculture is some larger this year, it does not appear from the reports coming in that all the tags purchased are being used to tag sacks of guano with, the purpose of which they are intended under the law.

"It now appears that thousands of these tags were bought simply for advertising purposes, to increase the demand for guano or to depress the price of spot cotton. I am in receipt of a large number of letters from reliable parties, mostly small dealers at interior points in the three states named, giving the information that thousands of fertilizer tags are being found scattered over the floors of the cars in which guano is shipped; that in some cars whole boxes of tags are found and in others from four to six tags are attached to each sack.

"Reports further indicate that the actual sales of guano are off from twenty-five to sixty per cent. under that of last year, and that freight conductors over many of the leading railroads in this state say the shipments are largely under last year. In other sections small dealers are sending out circulars giving reductions in prices of guano in order to draw up customers. I have these letters in hand and can furnish the names of parties if necessary.

"It is up to the fertilizer companies to explain why the tags are being so recklessly thrown around this spring, and why it is that all reports from interior points indicate less actual sales of guano by from twenty to sixty per cent. in the face of an unprecedented demand for tags from the department of agriculture. This explanation is needed because we are constantly reading reports being sent out through the press and in circular form, stating that the farmers are not reducing the acreage and use of guano under cotton as they pledged themselves to do. Statements are further being made that the Southern Cotton Association has failed in its efforts along this line. This is a reflection upon the integrity and intelligence of Southern farmers which I resent at this time and have sufficient evidence in my possession to fully sustain me in the statement that both the cotton acreage and use of guano will be heavily reduced throughout the entire cotton producing belt."

PEST OF CATERPILLARS.

Ravages of Insects Almost Equal To Biblical Times.

(Atlanta Journal, 25.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 24.—For several days reports have been coming into Savannah of the ravages of the caterpillars within 12 or 14 miles of the city. Yesterday a representative of The Journal visited the stricken section and was astonished at the situation. The caterpillars have become a plague as destructive as any that ever visited the west or committed depredations in Biblical times.

The pests have overrun Antioch church and made it unfit for use. The streams are so badly covered with them that when it was decided to have a baptising last Sunday brush-brooms had to be employed to clean off the surface of the water. Two negro families have been run out of their homes by the great horde of hungry, hairy things, and Richard Dotson, who lived at Pooler, had to put his entire family of twelve at work to keep them from overrunning his home.

The residents about Pooler are surrounding their homes with ditches to keep the conquering army back. On the turnpike farms of Judge F. S. Lathrop, chairman of the board of county commissioners of Chatham county, work has almost been at a standstill in one way or more work was in another. All the turnpike boxes that had the least gum in them will have to be dipped and thrown away, as the caterpillars have crawled into them, stuck there and died.

At Williams station, on the Seaboard railway, a freight train was stalled last week by the caterpillars. The dead insects caused such a stench that people passing that way were made sick.

Let The Entire South.

The record of Southern educational institutions was broken last year by the Georgia-Alabama Business College, of Macon, Ga., with an enrollment of 753 pupils representing every Southern state.

It's marvelous success is due in large degree to its iron clad, written guarantee of positions by a $5,000 bank deposit, the painstaking, individual instruction in all English branches given free to every student, and its positive written guaranty of satisfaction to all or money refunded.

With its honor roll of over 7,000 successful former students it urges all ambitious young people to write at once to Prest. E. L. Martin, Macon, Ga., for his great special offer which is just out.

Riot in Texas.

The whiskey question was the cause of a bloody and deplorable riot at Hempstead, Texas, Monday night. For several years the place has been a so-called dry town, and a recent attempt to vote whiskey back failed, and left in its wake much factional hatred and bitterness. Lawlessness prevailed to such a degree that on Monday night the prohibitionists met in mass meeting to petition the governor to send troops to enforce the law.

Representatives of the whiskey faction entered the meeting, headed by J. N. Brown, prominent as a lawyer, who is alleged to have begun shooting. Others drew their pistols and followed his lead.

When the smoke cleared, three men were found dead, one fatally wounded and two others severely wounded. The dead are: J. N. Brown, who started the riot, J. M. Pinckney, member congress.

Thomson Pinckney.

The wounded are: John Mills, a leading prohibitionist, fatally; Doc Tompkins, private secretary to Congressman Pinckney; Rolling Brown, son of the ring-leader.

PERPETUAL POTATO PATCH.

An Irish Potato Bed That Furnishes Potatoes the Year Round.

Mr. C. H. Anderson, one of the best of the many successful agriculturists of the 44th district, has something new in the way of a perpetual potato patch of which he is very proud.

It consists of a bed about twenty by forty feet square planted in Irish potatoes and covered to a depth of about fifteen inches with compost and mulching; and from this bed Mr. Anderson tells us that he has potatoes almost every day in the year.

The Georgia politicians are badly mixed up as to what constitutes a real primary election. Probably the next session of the Legislature will straighten them out.

At last the worm has turned to pay his tormentors. Grover Cleveland rises to say that those editors who accused him, while president, of going on fishing trips in order to play poker and get on big drinks were and are a bunch of mendacious liars, or words to that effect.

J. Pope Brown, chairman of the Railroad Commission, announces that he will be a candidate for governor of Georgia next year. What support he relies on, he can, we think, safely count upon the unqualified opposition of the railroad interests.

Manager Earle of the Columbia (S. C.) baseball team had his life saved by a collar button the other day while passing through South Carolina on a train. A drunken negro fired a pistol at the train, the ball, passing through a panel, went straight at Earle's throat, but striking his collar button glanced off. A severely lacerated throat was the net result. Railroad detectives are tracing the negro.

Miss Nancy, Andrew Carnegie's favorite niece, married the family coachman a year ago and the fact has just been made public through the birth of a young coachman. To her critics among the parvenu aristocracy her Uncle Andy answers that the coachman is an honest man and a gentleman, and as such is far more acceptable to the Carnegie family than would have been an impecunious and profligate foreign nobleman, so-called. AS TO GRAND JURIES.

The Augusta papers are some what exercised because Judge Hammond consumed but three minutes in a recent charge to a Richmond county grand jury.

Judge Hammond is a wise man. It is a waste of time to charge grand juries at great length. A judge can outline their duties to them in a comprehensive way without uttering a philippic against all creation. Some time ago Judge Martin made a most remarkable, sensational and unusual charge to a grand jury at Hawkinsville. He charged them, among other things, that bridge whist and progressive enche, when prizes were given for the best score, constituted gambling, pure and simple, and that it was the sworn duty of the grand jury to indict every person known or reasonably suspected to have engaged in such games. That the grand jury paid no attention to the charge is evidenced by the fact that not a single indictment was returned, although it was a notorious fact that society people all over Pulaski county were freely indulging in the practices specifically named by the learned judge as indictable crimes. As a rule the charge of a judge or the long pleading of a lawyer has little or no effect upon the mind of the average juror, so far as his final determination on the merits of a case goes. He knows, or thinks he knows, just what ought to be done in each case without any dramatic suggestions, pro or con, from the lawyers. The lawyer may make a reputation and thereby enhance his business, but he rarely changes the predisposed bent of the average juror's mind.

When Joe Jefferson came to the American stage actors were almost ostracized in polite society, but the combined efforts and chaste habits of Jefferson, Booth, Barrett, the Drews, Emma Abbott, Clara Morris, and many other less famous men and women of the profession, have gradually broken down the barriers of prejudice against stage people, and to-day the deserving ones are received with cordiality and honor in the very best circles of American society. Mr. Jefferson founded the Players' Club, and was a leading factor in the founding of the Home for Aged Actors. These institutions will be his worthy and enduring monuments.

Senator Orville H. Platt was no ordinary man. He was not of any particular force as a speaker, but was a tireless, faithful, and conscientious worker. He was a true type of the old Puritan stock of the New England States, an honest, consistent Republican of the Abe Lincoln school, and was never bitter or abusive toward the South.

When trouble was brewing with Spain, and the newspapers cried aloud against the "Reconcentration" policy of Gen. Weyler, Senator Platt went over to Cuba to see for himself what were the real conditions there. He saw enough of the horrors of Weylerism to convince him that it was high time for humanity to intervene on behalf of bleeding Cuba. He came back to his seat in the Senate with his Puritan soul ablaze with just indignation. With tears rolling down his cheeks, he told his brother senators what he had seen. No one who heard that plain, simple, yet impassioned and dramatic recital of wrong and oppression, will ever forget it. Its effect was electrical, and from that day on Mr. Platt was the leader of the war party in the Senate.

Mr. Platt's interest in Cuba did not cease with the war. Indeed, it may be truthfully said that he was the constructive statesman who formulated Cuba's present system of government.

Furthermore, says Dr. Pentecost, Mr. Rockefeller is worth from five hundred to a thousand million dollars, and the sum total of all his gifts to schools, churches and public charities foots up $28,500,000. This sum, he thinks, is about the equivalent of the five-cent contribution of a man whose income is only $5,000 a year.

This being the case, the doctor does not think Mr. Rockefeller is entitled to be called a philanthropist at all, but should be regarded as one whose gifts are an excuse rather than a benefaction.

A Kansas man, who appears to think that no rich man is generous without an ulterior motive, makes the unique suggestion that Rockefeller contributed to the missionary cause solely upon the theory that converted heathens would naturally

TWO NOTABLE DEATHS

Joseph Jefferson, the Actor, and Senator Orville H. Platt.

The past few days have witnessed the passing away of two distinguished Americans, both of whom will live in history and both of whom have been makers of history, each being a conservative leader in his own field of endeavor.

They were Joseph Jefferson, the actor and the American stage, and Orville H. Platt, senior senator from Connecticut, and the author of the famous Platt Amendment to the Cuban Constitution, a document that probably forever fixes the status of the commercial relations of Cuba and the United States.

Joseph Jefferson, fourth, was the last of five generations of great actors who have adorned the English and American stages for nearly two centuries. Thomas Jefferson, remotest known ancestor of "Our Joe," having made his debut on the stage of the old Drury Lane Theatre, in London, with David Garrick as far back as 1746.

When Joe Jefferson came to the American stage actors were almost ostracized in polite society, but the combined efforts and chaste habits of Jefferson, Booth, Barrett, the Drews, Emma Abbott, Clara Morris, and many other less famous men and women of the profession, have gradually broken down the barriers of prejudice against stage people, and to-day the deserving ones are received with cordiality and honor in the very best circles of American society. Mr. Jefferson founded the Players' Club, and was a leading factor in the founding of the Home for Aged Actors. These institutions will be his worthy and enduring monuments.

Senator Orville H. Platt was no ordinary man. He was not of any particular force as a speaker, but was a tireless, faithful, and conscientious worker. He was a true type of the old Puritan stock of the New England States, an honest, consistent Republican of the Abe Lincoln school, and was never bitter or abusive toward the South.

When trouble was brewing with Spain, and the newspapers cried aloud against the "Reconcentration" policy of Gen. Weyler, Senator Platt went over to Cuba to see for himself what were the real conditions there. He saw enough of the horrors of Weylerism to convince him that it was high time for humanity to intervene on behalf of bleeding Cuba. He came back to his seat in the Senate with his Puritan soul ablaze with just indignation. With tears rolling down his cheeks, he told his brother senators what he had seen. No one who heard that plain, simple, yet impassioned and dramatic recital of wrong and oppression, will ever forget it. Its effect was electrical, and from that day on Mr. Platt was the leader of the war party in the Senate.

Mr. Platt's interest in Cuba did not cease with the war. Indeed, it may be truthfully said that he was the constructive statesman who formulated Cuba's present system of government.

Furthermore, says Dr. Pentecost, Mr. Rockefeller is worth from five hundred to a thousand million dollars, and the sum total of all his gifts to schools, churches and public charities foots up $28,500,000. This sum, he thinks, is about the equivalent of the five-cent contribution of a man whose income is only $5,000 a year.

This being the case, the doctor does not think Mr. Rockefeller is entitled to be called a philanthropist at all, but should be regarded as one whose gifts are an excuse rather than a benefaction.

A Kansas man, who appears to think that no rich man is generous without an ulterior motive, makes the unique suggestion that Rockefeller contributed to the missionary cause solely upon the theory that converted heathens would naturally

Brooklet Locals.

Miss Mackie Wilson is visiting her brother, Mr. Jack Wilson, this week.

There was an Easter service at Brooklet Methodist church Sunday evening, consisting of music and songs, befitting the occasion, as well as recitations by a number of young ladies, which were greatly enjoyed. Prof. Lewis managed the affair and gave a fine lecture on the "Resurrection of Christ."

Mr. and Mrs. Lee, of Guyton, visited the family of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robertson last Saturday and Sunday.

Our little town is still growing. Work has been started on the home of Mrs. W. B. Robertson; Mr. C. M. Martin has things moving on his house, and Mr. Frank Rodgers has almost completed his home.

There was a little snail-paced scare at Brooklet Tuesday, but it turned out to be chickenpox.

Miss Annie Faughtman came up last Friday to visit her mother and sister.

Mrs. Sallie Strickland and daughter, Miss Katie, came up Saturday. We understand that Mrs. Strickland will spend the summer here.

Mr. A. J. Lee is a little indisposed this week.

Mr. James Bland is having the paint put on his residence.

The baseball game last Saturday between Brooklet and Statesboro was very interesting, until the fifth inning, when it all went one way and ceased to interest the people of Brooklet, at least.

Brooklet has a fine Sunday-school, of which we are all proud.

Several of our citizens went up to court at Statesboro Monday.

Copps are looking fine in this section, and the farmers are very busy working on "General Green."

Some talk hard times; some talk good times, but we talk THE BULLCOT TIMES at all times.

Miss Nellie Neve, of Savannah, is spending a few days with Miss Eva Martin.

Joe Ben Martin, of Statesboro, came down Sunday to visit his parents for a day or two.

Mrs. Ethel Morris, of Atlanta, is spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Martin.

Mr. B. C. Barnhill and family moved into their handsome and commodious dwelling here last week.

The farmers in this community have been having fine rains for the past week and the small plants are getting over the effect of the recent cold snap.

Dr. S. B. Kennedy of Swainsboro, was a visitor to Statesboro during the week, and was a pleasant caller to this office.

The two meningitis patients in town, Robbie Fulcher and Johnnie McDougal, continue quite low, with only slight hopes of their recovery.

Mr. W. F. Blue, of Macon, is acting as court stenographer this term, in the absence of Mr. E. Price Wood, who is prevented by illness from being present.

A game of ball at Brooklet last Saturday between the Statesboro second nine and the Brooklet first nine. Ben Martin had his ankle broken.

He is now able to get about on crutches.

The advance of spring is indicated by the rapid growth of corn and cotton. Andrew Bird showed us this morning a well-developed corn tassel. Who will be first with a cotton bloom?

S. A. Rogers' big ad. on this page will be readily seen. Mr. Rogers has been doing work in Statesboro long enough that everybody knows of his workmanship. He wants a chance to give you figures—the rest is easy.

At the fire Tuesday evening a pocket knife was lost which the owner values highly. It was loaned to some person for use in cutting the sash weight cords of a window and not returned. Its proper owner will get it if left at this office.

Arrangements are being made for elaborate closing exercises at the Statesboro Institute next month. The program will cover proceedings lasting two days, and includes several educational addresses and a sermon suitable to the occasion.

At the Baptist Church.

On account of the absence of the pastor, Rev. J. S. Statesboro Wins Ball Game.

Statesboro administered defeat to the V. M. C. A. of Savannah in the baseball game yesterday to the tune of 12 to 2. The weather, though threatening in the forenoon, cleared off in time for the game, and the crowd who witnessed the game numbered over 700. COURT IN SESSION

SPRING TERM WAS BEGUN MONDAY MORNING.

JUDGE RAWLINGS' FIRST CHARGE.

Grand Jury Will Probably Finish Deliberations this Afternoon, or Tomorrow at the Latest.

The April term of superior court convened Monday morning and the mill of justice has been grinding steadily since.

The grand jury consists of J. A. Warnock, foreman; Jason Franklin, clerk; S. G. Stewart, T. B. Thorne, J. T. Trapnell, W. A. Slater, L. A. Scarborough, Jack Brown, F. M. Womack, J. V. Brunson, J. R. Martin, J. W. Wilson, M. J. Kennedy, M. G. Brannen, J. J. Womack, D. P. Averitt, Emanuel Barrow, Hiram Bland, J. E. Brown, A. L. McCorkle, W. B. Martin, Daniel Buie, J. J. Parrish and B. B. Burke.

The present is Judge Rawlings' first term on the bench, and his alacrity in disposing of business is favorably commented upon by those having business in the court. His charge to the grand jury was particularly clear, and threw special light on the subject of a juror's duty touching matters needing investigation. He explained that the work of a grand juror is not limited, as some maintain, to such cases as are brought officially before him while in the jury room, but properly covers all violations of law not barred by the statute of limitation that may come within his personal knowledge.

The civil docket consumed the time of the court up to noon yesterday, at which time the criminal docket was taken up. The following civil cases had been disposed of up to the time of entering upon the criminal docket:

Anna Waters vs A. W. Waters; divorce. Granted.

M. B. Freeman vs Daisy Freeman; divorce. Continued.

M. J. Bowen and W. L. Jones vs P. H. Perkins, et al; equity. Settled.

On account of the disqualification of Judge Rawlings in a number of criminal cases originating during his term as solicitor general, he is being assisted by Judge Paul Scarborough, of the Eastern circuit.

The first criminal case tried was that of J. D. Lanier, charged with assault with intent to murder, the defendant being acquitted. This was followed by the case against Wesley Waters and Henry and Perry Barnes, for murder. The state chose to sever the cases and Waters was put on trial first. A jury was easily secured and the case was speedily dispatched, resulting in Waters' acquittal at midnight last night. The cases against the other two defendants have not been called. It will be remembered that the specific charge against the defendants is that, following the great excitement here last summer, they whipped an old negro, Sebastian McBride, so severely that he died from the effects of the whipping.

The grand jury is still in session, with work enough ahead to carry it into tomorrow, or probably the next day.

THE ORGANIZED CHURCH

Subject of Sermon by Dr. Paine, Elder Patterson on Baseball.

Dr. J. A. Paine, of Tioga, Texas, occupied the pulpit at the Primitive Baptist church of Statesboro last Sunday morning, and preached a great sermon. He is an able man, thoughtful, scholarly, polished, and a born pulpit orator. Those who failed to hear him, no matter their creed, missed a rare treat in Christian orthodoxy.

His subject was "The Organized Church," and the text was taken from Isaiah xxxiii: 1, 2, as follows: "Behold, a king shall rule in righteousness and princes shall rule in judgment. And a man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as a river of water in a dry place; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land."

We have neither the space or the ability to properly trace the logical force and breadth of Dr. Paine's great discourse. Its basis was built upon the theory that no king can truly be said to reign without loyal and orderly subjects; that unless Christians were loyal to God and orderly to His Church there could be no real advancement in truth and righteousness. The sermon was thoroughly orthodox and the subject was handled with the art of a master's mind.

Dr. Paine has been in Georgia some time, making a sort of evangelical tour of the Primitive Baptist associations. Eld. Stubbs feels that Dr. Paine's visit to Statesboro will prove a great help to the cause. He left Sunday afternoon for Metter, where he preached that night. He will visit the churches of the Upper Canoochee Association and then go to Barnesville, Ga.

At night the pulpit was filled by Eld. A. W. Patterson, who preached an able sermon, his theme being a closer walk with God. He urged his brethren to live the true Christian life—in substance, to be careful, that they keep themselves unspotted from the world.

He touched lightly on some of the frivolities of the times, denouncing baseball as one of the cardinal influences in the train of corrupting agencies that beset our young men and boys. The young men who smoke cigarettes and part their hair in the middle also got a rap. He called them effeminate creatures, and said that while he regarded woman as God's divinely earthly gift to man, and esteemed her influence as earth's noblest inspiration for the uplifting of humanity, he was glad that he was not a woman. "I prefer to be a man—the highest type of God's creation, because he is made in God's own image."

A BEAUTIFUL SERVICE.

Methodist Sunday-school Suitably Celebrated Easter.

An elaborate and most beautiful Easter service was held by the Methodist Sunday-school Sunday night, and the crowd present taxed the church to its fullest capacity and a great many were turned away from room of room.

The exercises, which were in charge of Superintendent Hinton Booth, consisted of recitations and both vocal and instrumental music by the members of the school, and were indeed a credit to the school. The interest manifested in this Sunday-school is a matter of pride to the church, and is commented upon frequently by visitors from other towns.

Old Homestead Quartet.

Monday evening the Old Homestead Male Quartet rendered a short but excellent program to the Statesboro Lyceum. The quartet was in fine trim, and the director, Mr. S. J. Bennett, has one of the sweetest and most flexible voices on the American stage.

The quartet was not all, for how could we leave this subject without telling of the excellent work of that "star" reader, Miss Nellie Forbes, one of the brightest, best, prettiest and sweetest girls before the public.

"Ah, the heart-cheering rays of a smile that gleams from her beautiful eyes."

The petition of James A. Fulcher, R. Lee Moore, J. L. Coleman, D. F. McCoy, J. W. Olliff, Lee Kennedy, C. C. Simmons, J. E. Brannen and B. T. Outland and others, respectfully shows:

1. That they desire for themselves, their associates, successors and assigns to become incorporated under the name and style of BULLOCH TIMES.

2. The term for which petitioners ask to be incorporated is twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the end of that time.

3. The capital stock of the corporation is to be $20,000 divided into shares of $5.00 each. Petitioners, however, ask the privilege of increasing said capital stock from time to time not exceeding in the aggregate $100,000.

4. One-half of said capital stock of $20,000 has already been actually paid in.

5. The object of the proposed corporation is pecuniary profit and gain to its stockholders.

Petitioners propose to carry on a business of printing and publishing a newspaper and to do such other job work and printing and publishing as they may desire, and to handle such articles and stationery goods and things as are usually embraced in the newspaper business, and to buy and to sell either for cash or on credit all such articles and things as may be profitably handled and sold in connection therewith, and to exercise the usual powers and to do all usual, necessary and proper acts which pertain to or may be connected with the business of publishing and printing said newspaper, including book binding, etc., with the right to buy, own and sell real and personal property.

6. The principal office and place of business of the proposed corporation will be in the city of Statesboro, said state and county.

Wherefore petitioners pray to be made a body corporate under the name and style aforesaid, entitled to the rights, privileges and immunities and subject to the liabilities fixed by law, with the right to sue and be sued and to have a common seal. This the 14th day of February, 1905.
